

FirstStep Employment Law Advisor

A tool designed for the business owner

The elaws FirstStep Employment Law Advisor helps businesses determine which DOL laws apply to them.

By asking a few questions regarding relevant factors such as the nature, location and size of the business, and whether or not the business has federal contracts or subcontracts, the Advisor lets employers simply and quickly identify which major DOL employment laws apply to their business. It also provides information about how to comply with each law's requirements.

"The elaws Advisors represent the best of business at the start of the 21st century. They combine the knowledge of employment law experts, the practical experience of America's business people, cutting edge technology and the vast power of the Internet to reach anyone at anytime."

Elaine L. Chao
Secretary of Labor

The elaws Advisors are one of a number of free tools developed to further DOL's dedication to provide clear, accurate and easy-to-access compliance assistance for employers and to protect the wages, health benefits, retirement security, safety and health of America's workforce.

Answering Your Questions About Federal Employment Laws

The eLaws (Employment Laws Assistance for Workers and Small Businesses) Advisors are interactive online tools that help employers and workers understand their rights and responsibilities under the federal employment laws administered by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL).

The eLaws Advisors are:

- Easy to use and understand.
- Free of charge.
- Available 24 hours a day, seven days a week at www.dol.gov/eLaws.

The eLaws Advisors simulate interactions between you and an employment law expert. Simply visit www.dol.gov/eLaws and answer the online questions. Each eLaws Advisor will clarify complex issues specific to your workplace and employment situation.

The Advisors also include links to more detailed information, such as regulatory text, fact sheets, posters and other compliance assistance materials.
